2 Topics, 2 Speakers, 4 CEU!

A Lifetime of Pearls - Bryan Judd, DDS

This fast-paced, open discussion of “all things dental” will be filled with pearls and topics from everyday dentistry, photography, injections, prep design, simple anterior aesthetic cases to complex full mouth rehabilitation and more. Dr. Judd will share pearls he has incorporated into his practice over the years. Learn:

- The value of a comprehensive new patient exam
- What is important in your preps – get the lab point of view
- Protocols for simple anterior aesthetic cases to complex full mouth rehab

Occlusion: The Key to Successful Restorative Cases - Steven Lynch, DDS

This course explores reasons why our esthetic/porcelain/composite cases can fail and how to make these challenging cases much more predictable. Poor occlusion can trigger destructive forces, heavy tooth wear, chronic sensitivity, grind/clench issues, and failure of our dental restorations. Learn how Dr. Lynch, a very mortal dentist, introduced occlusion into his dental practice. Multiple examples of failed and successful cases will be shown and well as a ‘step by step’ sequence of an anterior esthetic case. Learn:

- How to identify a destructive occlusion
- Techniques for establishing a protective, stable, esthetic occlusion
- How to test occlusion prior to placing final restorations

Dr. Judd has been an instructor with the California Center for Advanced Dental Studies, Frontier Institute and Pacific Aesthetic Continuum and Clinical Director for Frontier Institute. He maintains a private practice in Roseville, CA with an emphasis in Aesthetic Dentistry. Dr Judd loves spending time with his wife, Barbara, and has four children and thirteen grandchildren. He loves playing basketball and playing in the classic rock and roll band, Walkin' the Dawg.

Dr. Lynch has been in dentistry since 1982. After graduating from UCLA dental school, he stayed an extra year as a hospital-based general practice resident. Locating next in Vacaville, he had a conservative, blue-collar private practice for 35 years. From the beginning, Dr. Lynch was interested in learning techniques which required less tooth reduction and produced less stress on the teeth and surrounding tissues. He has been on the faculty of the Los Angeles Institute of Clinical Dentistry for the past 14 years.
